

Weekly Woodpecker Class News (14.10.16)

This week, in English, we used all of our hard work and detailed study of part of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory to plan our very own short fantasy story. We wrote our introductions and began writing our final, neat drafts of the whole short story. We have been focussing on independently using the huge array of grammar and vocabulary tools that we have learnt about in the past few weeks, as well as trying to write in cursive script. During Guided Reading, we discussed and explained author techniques and language use for creating certain atmospheres and moods.

In Maths this week, we have seen great improvements in our ability to add with efficient written methods for arithmetic (non-context) questions. We have also rounded numbers up to 10,000,000 to various powers of 10 (10, 100, 1000 etc.). Some of us applied our understanding of rounding to an investigation. As well as this, we looked at negative numbers in context and calculated intervals that cross 0.

We continued our first Science unit of the year 'We are Space Presenters', by rehearsing and organising the filming of our Stargazing episode on the school iPads. We have evaluated our group work and outcomes so far and will be editing them next week!

In Topic, we researched the beginning of chocolate! We used computers to create information texts with facts about how chocolate links to the Ancient Maya lands. Also, we have all now created traditional Guatemalan worry dolls in Art.
